[For Additional City Intelligence see F . A. L. A.] POLITICAL ECONOMY-LECTURE AT THE QUARER CITY BUSINESS COLLEGE.—Last evening, at the Quaker City Business College, new branch, at Broad and Spring Garden streets, Rev. O. S. Senter delivered an address to the pupils. It may here be properly stated this department of the Business College was inaugurated last Monday evening, with appropriate evenings.

The Business College was inaugurated last Monday evening, with appropriate exercises.

To benefit the student- of the city, and instruct the general public, a course of ten lectures on Political Economy were inaugurated by the Principal, of which last evening's was the second. Rev. O. S. Senter delivered the second lecture last evening, to a large audience, his subject being: subject being:

"Secretary McCulloch's report, with special reference to the following proposition—'Is our National Debt a Blessing or a Curse?"

Rev. Mr. Senter referred to the fearful and sanguinary struggle lately closed, which had rocked the earth, and seemed to shake the heavens. During that great conflict, he, with others, had had their minds directed to other questions of less startling interest than warfare; still, those issues, like finance, were of great and At that time the nation had a great, bold, clear-minded man, Chief Justice Chase, as Secretary of the Treasury. Succeeding him was the calm debater and Statesman, known over the country. Mr. Fewenden. Then came the able and ellic ent present Secretary, of great energy of purpose, of great experience, Hugh McCulloch who came in time of peace, which requires more prudence and sagacity than the time of war. It was a great thing to the country that they had a wise, predent man, who recommended no ex-periments, none being now needed, but fol-lowed the regular, well-beaten track. In the first place, the Secretary advised the retirement of all the legal-tender notes, or the common treasury notes, the compound interest notes, and the five per cent, interest notes. The Secretary advocated the idea that the principle of issuing currency by the United States is un-constitutional. In this he differs from our great statesmen Clay and Webster.

Secondly. He advises a contraction of the currency, deeming it is far too large; that we have too many banking privileges; and that the business interests of the country will be far better served by having a limited currency, well se-cured, than having a too largely expanded currency. Next, he declared we should retain the balance of trade in our favor, thus keeping the specie of the country on the true basis, and pring only as much as we are able to pay from amount of our sales. This true principle must be preserved by every nation that would be prosperous. Fourthly. He advises that we pay the national debt, and that not too glugerly, but in a manner that can be practically appreciated, and that will truly restore the finances of the country. He would, on the true principle, have us liberally taxed, so that we may not only pay off the mit rest, but have a surplus over that will pay the whole deal within thirty or forty years, Figh. He advises to fund the debt, that is, persons that hold the loan shall be offered new bonds, running a longer period at a less interest, so as to benefit them, and yet cost the country less annual expenditure for the interest of the Sixth. A continued exemption of Government securities from taxation. It looks to be hard that some capitalists shall be freed from taxation while other branches of investment and popular industries have to bear their proportionate exac-

But the Government must support its credit and preserve the spirit of its pledges, that the honor of the nation and the credit of the country shall be inviolate in the future. Besides preserving the commercial credit of our Government, it is only obeying the dictates of honor and

The seventh point the Secretary advised was the resumption of specie payments at the very earliest moment. That was the great question affecting our present and future prosperity. He would have the nation so governed and directed that the exchanges of trade would require foreign nations to pay to us the treasures of their gold bags, instead of requiring us to be constantly and incessantly pouring the hard money of California into their overflowing banks. No one could say when the resumption was practicable, but all should endeavor to preserve that

The lecturer ably referred to the suggestions of Secretary McCulloch in regard to the South ern States, supporting at length his views that all business transactions therein for the past should be legalized, though effected without stamps; that the collection of internal revenue and governmental assessments of taxes should be deferred for the present. Following these, at length, was discussed very ably the paradox that a contracted currency on a sound basis would make money more abundant than would an inflated currency. Without concluding his subject, the lecturer announced that on next Thursday he would resume, after which the students would be invited to discuss the subject.

PROCEEDINGS IN COUNCILS.-In Select Branch the annual report of the City Controller was presented. We have already presented its main features. A resolution to appoint a committee of five from each Chamber to examine into the management of affairs by the heads of departments, and to report what action may be necessary for their more economical management, was called up and debated at length. It passed by a vote of 12 to 11. In Common Council, the ordinance making an appropriation to the Inspectors of the County Prison, to defray the expenses of the year 1866, was called up and passed, with sundry amendments. Mr. Marcer called up the ordinance making an appropriation of $54,400 to the Board of Health for 1866, which passed without any amendments, Mr. Griffiths, Chairman of the Committee on Trusts and Fire, presented a resolution that the Fair mount and Good Will Steam Fire Engine panies be suspended for one month. The resolution was agreed to. Mr. Evans presented an ordinance empowering the Chief Engineer suspend any engine, hose, or hook and ladder company which shall be gull y of destroying fire-plugs, or proceeding to a fire with their steamers at a greater speed than the Chief Engineer thinks proper. Agreed to.

FQUALIZATION OF BOUNTIES. - The soldiers contemplate holding a grand mass meeting two weeks hence, in front of Independence Hall, for the purpose of endersing, and urging the speedy passage of the bill offered by Hon. Charles O'Neill, of this city, relative to the equalization of bounties, presented January 8. The amount of money required to meet the expenses is estimated as follows. The amount estimated in Washington, as published in telegraphic de-patches, is over six hundred millions of dol-

CITY INTELLIGENCE | THE "KING OF PAIR" IN BAD LUCK .- The "King of Pain and Conqueror of Death," who visited our city last summer, has waged his war-fare against the fell destroyer all over the country, meeting with the same success—in accumulating "greenbacks"—which marked his solourn here. Lately he entered the lists against the "Royal Bengal Tiger," and the contest resulted in his deteat. The "Conqueror" is subjugated, and "Pain" is once more enabled to assert its away over the human system. over the human system. Our readers cannot fai to remember this distinguished sovereign, whose to remember this distinguished sovereign, whose advent here was so conspicuous and anspicuous. Adorned even as was Delilah's love, he came, like Cleopatra's hero, to conquer. Those pale, classical features, shaded by lengthy locks of raveu blackness, surely cannot have been forgotten. He came with a flourish of more than marrial music. Spirited steeds drew his chariot through our streets, and a coal-black contraband drew strains of as ectness from his melodious wind instrument. The job printer's skill and the artist's talents were exhausted in providing the flaming posters and illustrations which decorated his carriage, and the Moses furnished language posters and illustrations which decorated his carriage, and the Muses furnished language descriptive of the virtues of his medical merchandise. The same luxurious habits indulged in by the "Conqueror" in this city were continued in others. Langually, and with a becoming air, he would walk up to the laro table of a gaming room, and invest a few hundreds in "bine chips" just as a starting "stake." He was a marvel at the "call" of the "deal" "I'll play you open," says the King of Pain cordinally—"a hundred on the ace, flat—a hundred on the hundred on the ace, fat—a hundred on the Jacob card, and a hundred for ace-jack; a small decoction of whisky, my colored genius." The cards come Jack-ace, the elegant monarch of pain and subjugator of death rises, $1500 loser on the night's play, coolly lights another Havara, yawas wearily, but politely wishes the dealer a very good night, and seeks his couch.

He boarded at the Continental Hotel, made a daily practice of hiring carriages and riding out in style, registered himself as General McCook, and was supposed to be that identical person. He neglected to pay his board bill, was arrested, and taken to Camp Cadwalader. He sent for a prominent Market-Cadwalader. He sent for a prominent Market-street merchant, who repaired to the Continen-tal, paid the bill, and had him released. The prisoner had no counsel and when interrogated by Judge Allison, he stated that his triends had not provided him with an attorney, and he desired the Court to assign one. The Court assigned John O'Byrne, Esq., who subsequently associated Charles W. Brooke, Esq., in the conduct of the decease. The prisoner was arraigned and pleaded 'not guilty." Wednesday next was fixed for the trial.

THE CITY COMMISSIONERSHIP .- The evidence in this case in behalf of Major Weaver was brought to a close vesterday. But one wit ness was examined, and that was the Prothonotary, who testified that all the last batch of envelopes containing the alleged soldier yote, and on which John Given obtained a certificate of election, were received by him in the same mail, notwithstanding that they were allege! to have been mailed at different times in New Orleans and various parts of Virginia.

YOUTH COMMITTED .- Daniel Magher, a lad, had a further hearing vesterday afternoon, charged with the larceny of a one-thousand dollar bill from John Gill, living in Bedford street, between Fifth and Sixth. The robbery was per-petrated some time since. It was testified that Magher obtained the money and left for Balti-more, at which place he remained until recently. The youthful prisoner was committed for trial
